

A la carte: Die Beilage (side dish)

Materials

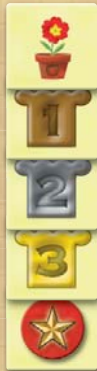

- 1 Kochfix tray
- 7 Kochfix bonus tiles
- 4 Kochfix coffee cups
- 1 Gamer's Best dish

The Kochfix expansion is for fast chefs. When a Kochfix coffee cup is revealed, the race begins. The player who is the next to complete a dish is rewarded with a Kochfix bonus tile.

Set-up

- At the beginning of the game, put the Kochfix tray in the middle of the table. All Kochfix coffee cups are placed on it when they are drawn during the game.

- Shuffle the Kochfix bonus tiles face down and lay them out next to the Kochfix tray. The bonus tiles give you victory points (chef's hats) in most cases. In addition, you can win a cooking star. The primrose in the flowerpot is a consolation prize but doesn't score.

- Mix the Kochfix coffee cups together with the other coffee cups. Do this only after each player has drawn one coffee cup from the basic game.

Game play with Kochfix

If you draw a Kochfix coffee cup during the game, you put it on an unoccupied space of the Kochfix tray. Then you draw a new coffee cup. This can be repeated if you draw additional Kochfix coffee cups. The next player who completes a dish, takes one Kochfix bonus tile and removes one Kochfix coffee cup from the tray. This cup is completely removed from the game.

The Gamer's Best dish

The new dish is put in the middle of the table. It can be chosen like any other dish. The dish has colors, i.e., it can be taken without restrictions. The special thing about Gamer's Best: It can't be over-spiced or over-salted; even 3 or more condiments of the same color are  allowed.

However, you don't get a cooking star for the dish. Gamer's Best can't burn, but it must have at least a heating level of 1. 